

Summer Solstice showroom event at TranquiliT: rsvp now!

What's Summer without some comfy clothes that you can live (and breathe) in? TranquiliT has been making comfy clothes made out of anti-bacterial, moisture-wicking bamboo fabric, perfect for those steamy days and nights in DC. Before you see visions of grass skirts and coconut-shell bikini tops, check out these pictures; the fabric is super-soft and drapes nicely. They're also extremely wearable, whether you're 18 or 88.

For ladies who like the versatility of a dress with many ways to wear it, their All-in-One wrap fits the bill. They even have a video so women who like the idea but who aren't too sure about the execution can be changing things around in no time. A figure-flattering tube dress widens to a figure-flattering A-line at waist level is a good buy now, with accessories taking center stage this summer. And for you maxi-dress lovers out there, they have a Grecian Maxi that can be belted, sashed or just worn as the flowing summer beauty that it is.

These items are usually a pretty good deal compared to other clothing companies (and especially compared to other bamboo-clothing boutiques, trust me on this one), but on the night of June 17th from 5-8pm they'll be an even better deal, 'cause you'll get a discount just for showing up! Better still, they're throwing down the environmentally sustainable red carpet for shoppers, with champagne and veggie munchies. Discounts, free booze and nosh, what else could you want?

Well, there's one more thing, just for you gals that want to keep one step ahead of everyone else (and who doesn't?) You'll get a chance to chat with the designer herself and take a peek at the latest fashions, including Fall collection pieces and colors that aren't even in stores yet.

There's one catch; since this is a special event at their showroom, you've got to RSVP to get in the door. Just send TranquiliT and e-mail and though there's no secret password, I'll bet if you ask nicely that's just the ticket you'll need. I already responded, because everyone knows I can't miss a bargain.

So what are you waiting for? See you next Wednesday!

P.S.: For you yoga ladies out there, yes, this is from the folks that bring you Tranquil Space Yoga, so know that you can go from your Downward Dog to a Downtown happy hour without breaking a sweat. Well, other than what you worked up during your class. But your secret's safe with me.
